LAW REVIEW ARTICLES, ESSAYS, & BOOK CHAPTERS (SSRN id=391494; Google Scholar, ResearchGate)

- The Four Horsemen of the New Separation of Powers: The Environmental Law Implications of Loper Bright, West Virginia, Sackett, and Corner Post, 109 MINN. L. REV. 2743 (2025) (article exploring horizontal and vertical separation of powers implications of the new concentration of judicial power in federal regulatory contexts, especially environmental law, and offering a proposal to protect judicial primacy in rights interpretation while sharing authority with the political branches over structural interpretation by requiring deference to qualifying interbranch bargaining).
- Saving Mono Lake: The Prologue, Peak, and Implementation of the Landmark Audubon Society Public Trust Litigation, 58 U.C. DAVIS. L. REV. 2631 (2025) (article exploring how the seminal public trust litigation at Mono Lake was interpreted, partnered with other litigation, and implemented by the Water Board, and how it mobilized the political process to change the fate of the Mono Basin, the eastern watershed of the Yosemite high country).
- Public Trust Principles and Environmental Rights: The Hidden Duality of Climate Rights Advocacy and the Atmospheric Trust, 49 HARV. ENV'T L. REV. 225 (2025) (article exploring how two seemingly contrasting models of climate advocacy—claims for regulation based on public trust principles and environmental rights—are reciprocal mirror images, because each formulation implicitly partners sovereign obligations with public environmental rights).

- Sackett vs. EPA and the Regulatory, Property, and Human Rights Based Strategies for Protecting American Waterways, 74 CASE WESTERN RES. L. REV. 281 (2023) (invited essay about the likely impacts of a decision limiting the reach of the Clean Water Act on the dynamic competition among three strategies for environmental protection).
- Privatization, Public Commons, and the Takingsification of Environmental Law, 171 U. PENN. L. REV. 617 (2023) (article examining the use of property rights to entrench environmental deregulation, and critiquing property theory that uncritically equates private interests in comparatively autonomous forms of property, such as a family home, with more circumscribed private interests in shared commons resources, such as public lands, air, and water). Selected as one of the 20 best environmental articles of the year and for republication in the 2023 ENVTL. LAW & POL'Y ANN. R.
- How the Successes and Failures of the Clean Water Act Fueled the Rise of the Public Trust Doctrine and Rights of Nature Movement, 73 CASE WESTERN RES. L. REV. 475 (2022) (invited essay for symposium on the 50th Anniversary of the Clean Water Act, celebrating its success but recognizing how its focus only on water quality, with few tools to protect sufficient water quantity in waterways, has resulted in competing approaches to protect ailing waterways).
- The Public Trust Doctrine, Property, and Society, in PROPERTY, LAW, AND SOCIETY (Nicole Graham, et al., eds., 2022) (chapter reviewing the origins and development of public trust principles to protect different values, in different resources, as vindicated by different legal mechanisms, in different U.S. jurisdictions).
- Environmental Rights for the 21st Century: A Comprehensive Analysis of the Public Trust Doctrine and Rights of Nature Movement, 42 CARDOZO L. REV. 2447 (2021) with Holly Curry & Hayes Rule (comparative analysis of the anthropocentric public trust doctrine and the ecocentric rights of nature movement, reviewing the unfolding international and domestic development of both approaches along multiple, related axes of legal differentiation).
- Tribute to Professor David Markell: A Colleague Among Colleagues, 36 J. LAND USE & ENVTL. L. 169 (2021) (invited essay discussing Dave Markell's contributions, scholarly and otherwise, to the field of environmental law).
- Environmental Law, Disrupted by COVID-19, 51 ENVTL. L. REP. 10509 (2021) (with Rebecca Bratspies, Vanessa Casado Perez, Robin Kundis Craig, Lissa Griffin, Keith Hirokawa, Sarah Krakoff, Katrina Kuh, Jessica Owley, Melissa Powers, Shannon Roesler, Jonathan Rosenbloom, J.B. Ruhl, and David Takacs).
- The Twin Environmental Law Problems of Preemption and Political Scale, in ENVIRONMENTAL LAW, DISRUPTED (Keith Hirokawa & Jessica Owley, eds., 2021) (book chapter arguing that, as key federal environmental regulations are dismantled, advocates should resist ceiling preemption of local environmental regulation and explore regional and private governance alternatives for achieving national-level policy without access to federal authority).
- A Short History of the Public Trust Doctrine and its Intersection with Private Water Law, 39 VIRGINIA ENVTL. L.J. 135 (2020) (tracing the history of the public trust doctrine from its Roman and British origins through modern U.S. law and its evolution from a doctrine of sovereign authority toward a doctrine of sovereign responsibility).
- Rationing the Constitution vs. Negotiating It: Coan, Mud, and Crystals in the Context of Dual Sovereignty, 2020 WISC. L. REV. 165 (2020) (invited essay, assessing Prof. Andrew Coan's provocative argument that judicial capacity is the most determinative factor in the Supreme Court's constitutional interpretation, and exploring its intersection with a different capacity-driven theory of constitutional interpretation that I offered in Negotiating Federalism).
- Federalism as Legal Pluralism, in THE OXFORD HANDBOOK ON LEGAL PLURALISM (Paul Berman, ed., 2020) (chapter using dynamic federalism as an analytic window into the legal pluralism discourse, noting shared emphasis on systemic spaces for dialogue, contestation, and negotiation and shared rejection of ‘zero-sum’ models preceding them).

- From Mono Lake to the Atmospheric Trust: Navigating the Public and Private Interests in Public Trust Resource Commons, 10 GEO. WASH. J. ENERGY & ENVTL. L. 39 (2019) (invited article tracing the roots of the public trust doctrine from early Roman and British common law through American law to the Mono Lake and Juliana v. US cases).
- Environmental Law, Disrupted. 49 ENVTL. LAW REPORTER 10038 (Jan. 2019), with Inara Scott, David Takacs, Rebecca Bratspies, Vanessa Casado Pérez, Robin Kundis Craig, Keith Hirokawa, Blake Hudson, Sarah Krakoff, Katrina Fischer Kuh, Jessica Owley, Melissa Powers, Shannon Roesler, Jonathan Rosenbloom, & J.B. Ruhl (collective article assessing how the law must adapt to meaningfully address the changing nature of environmental threats).
- Juliana v. United States: Debating the Fundamentals of the Fundamental Right to a Sustainable Climate, 45 FLA. ST. L. REV. ONLINE 1 (2018), with Mary Wood, James Huffman, Richard Frank, and Irma Russell (scholarly conversation about “the kid’s climate case,” in which youth plaintiffs allege violations of the public trust doctrine and substantive due process fundamental rights in the government’s failure to regulate greenhouse gas pollution). At <http://www.fsulawreview.com/article/juliana-v-united-states-debating-the-fundamentals-of-the-fundamental-right-to-a-sustainable-climate/>.
- Breathing Air with Heft: An Experiential Report on Environmental Law and Public Health in China, 42 U.C. DAVIS ENVIRONS 195 (2018) (article reporting on the intersections of daily life and environmental law in China, a nation still struggling to reconcile economic opportunity with breathable air, clean water, and safe food, even as it reemerges as a dominant world power).
- Negotiating Environmental Federalism: Dynamic Federalism as a Strategy for Good Governance, 2017 WISC. L. REV. 17 (2017) (invited essay, analyzing why the regulatory conflicts confronted by environmental governance almost uniformly call for negotiated multilevel governance).
- Secession and Federalism in the United States: Tools for Managing Regional Conflict in a Pluralist Society, 96 OREGON L. REV. 123 (2017) (article analyzing the history of secession in the United States, and how the United States has shifted to manage regional conflict through the decentralizing and dialogic dynamics of constitutional federalism). Republished in Alberto Lopez-Basaguren and Leire Escajedo San Epifanio, eds., CLAIMS FOR SECESSION AND FEDERALISM: A COMPARATIVE STUDY WITH A SPECIAL FOCUS ON SPAIN (Springer, 2019).
- Fisheries Without Courts: How Fishery Management Reveals Our Dynamic Separation of Powers, in Environmental Law Without Courts, 32 J. LAND USE & ENVTL. L. 430 (2017) (invited essay analyzing how the paradox of fisheries management intersects with the horizontal separation of powers and other governance issues).
- Coercion and the Clean Air Act: Extending Federal Fallback After NFIB, forthcoming (article analyzing whether EPA could and should fend off constitutional anti-coercion litigation against the Clean Air Act by extending the availability of existing federal fallback alternatives).
- Federalism, Regulatory Architecture, and the Clean Water Rule: Seeking Consensus on the Waters of the United States, 46 ENVTL. L. 277 (2016) (invited article analyzing how the Clean Water Rule wisely harnesses an unlikely convergence among the conflicting positions taken by different Supreme Court justices in Rapanos v. United States). Noted on the Legal Theory Blog on April 8, 2016.
- “Multilevel Environmental Governance in the United States,” ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENTIST, Vol. 25.3, Nov. 2016, pps. 50-57 (distilling the lessons of American experimentation with environmental federalism and multilevel governance for other nations).
