Faculty & Alum Profile: Sarah S. Butters (VI)

Sarah S. Butters is an alumni professor at the Florida State University College of Law. A member of the Florida Bar Society, she was also a practicing attorney in Jacksonville, Florida, for 36 years, focusing on estate planning. Butters has served as a speaker at various conferences and events, including the American College of Trusts and Estates Counsel. She has also served as an adjunct professor at Florida State University College of Law and is currently teaching Gratuitous Transfer.

Student Profile: December '17 Grad Curt Bender

Curt Bender is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Alum Profile: James X. Cook, ’98

James X. Cook is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Student Profile: December '17 Grad Curt Bender

Curt Bender is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Alum Profile: James X. Cook, ’98

James X. Cook is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Student Profile: December '17 Grad Curt Bender

Curt Bender is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Alum Profile: James X. Cook, ’98

James X. Cook is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.

Student Profile: December '17 Grad Curt Bender

Curt Bender is a dynamic student, entrepreneur, and public servant who is a member of Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, the National Association of Black Law Students, and the American Bar Association. He externed for the Honorable Angela M. Cox, Circuit Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, and clerked for public defender offices. He is implementing the Florida State Law Entrepreneurship Initiative, a pro bono program to connect FSU law students who desire practical experience in business law with local attorneys to aid entrepreneurs within the greater Tallahassee community. He and his team hope to provide services to local and regional entrepreneurs and entities through entity formation and continual assistance.