Student Profile: 3L Maria'h Givens

Maria'h Givens is a third-year law student at Florida State University College of Law. She is a member of the FSU Trial Team, having interned for the Florida State Attorney’s Office, the Attorney’s Office for the Second Judicial Circuit and the Institute for Family and Community Health at Tallahassee Community College. She also served as a mentor for the Donald J. Weidner Summer Undergraduates Program. Givens is currently president of the FSU Black Law Students Association. She is a member of the FSU Trial Team, having interned for the Florida State Attorney's Office, the Attorney's Office for the Second Judicial Circuit and the Institute for Family and Community Health at Tallahassee Community College. She also served as a mentor for the Donald J. Weidner Summer Undergraduates Program. Givens is currently president of the FSU Black Law Students Association.

Faculty Profile: Douglas A. Kahn

Douglas A. Kahn is a visiting professor of law at Florida State University College of Law. He is the author of several law review articles and publications, including “The Use of the Federal Antitrust Authority in the Field of Civil Rights,” which was published in 2010, and a new edition of his coauthored book, “Florida Taxation.” Prior to his career in academia, Kahn practiced in Washington, D.C., and served as a trial attorney with both the civil and tax divisions of the U.S. Department of Justice. Kahn is a renowned expert in taxation and has written extensively on the subject. He is the Paul G. Kauper Professor of Taxation at the University of Virginia Law School.

Alum Profile: Travis Voyles ('17)

Travis Voyles is a fellow with the Innovative Community Engagement Foundation. If you are interested in hiring Givens after graduation, contact him on LinkedIn. Voyles also holds a Master of City and Regional Planning with specializations in economic development, land use and environmental law. He has published articles on energy policy, and emerging technology and cybersecurity developments. In his role as legislative counsel for the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, he was responsible for conducting investigations related to oversight matters within Congress, including congressional hearings, briefings and testimony. Voyles represents the office of the House Speaker on Capitol Hill, and serves as the principal contact for the Speaker on Capitol Hill, and serves as the principal contact for the Speaker in connection with legislative and executive branches.

Amos Profile: Truan Voyles (’17)

Truan Voyles is a fellow with the Innovative Community Engagement Foundation. If you are interested in hiring Givens after graduation, contact him on LinkedIn. Voyles also holds a Master of City and Regional Planning with specializations in economic development, land use and environmental law. He has published articles on energy policy, and emerging technology and cybersecurity developments. In his role as legislative counsel for the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, he was responsible for conducting investigations related to oversight matters within Congress, including congressional hearings, briefings and testimony. Voyles represents the office of the House Speaker on Capitol Hill, and serves as the principal contact for the Speaker in connection with legislative and executive branches.

Student Profile: 3L Maria'h Givens

Maria'h Givens is a third-year law student at Florida State University College of Law. She is a member of the FSU Trial Team, having interned for the Florida State Attorney’s Office, the Attorney’s Office for the Second Judicial Circuit and the Institute for Family and Community Health at Tallahassee Community College. She also served as a mentor for the Donald J. Weidner Summer Undergraduates Program. Givens is currently president of the FSU Black Law Students Association. She is a member of the FSU Trial Team, having interned for the Florida State Attorney's Office, the Attorney's Office for the Second Judicial Circuit and the Institute for Family and Community Health at Tallahassee Community College. She also served as a mentor for the Donald J. Weidner Summer Undergraduates Program. Givens is currently president of the FSU Black Law Students Association.