From the Dean.

Highly appraised being a student in the FSU College of Law. This semester, students can choose the course provided by Eric A. Nadler, a law professor at the University of Miami School of Law. The course is held every year during spring break. Taught by alumnus Fred Karlinsky (’92), the course provides students with a wealth of knowledge on risk management. Students learn about the legal issues surrounding the use of social media in the workplace, the implications of data breaches, and the importance of protecting personal information.

Student Profile: 3L, William Hendrick

William Hendrick is a 3L student at the FSU College of Law. He is also a student member of the Hillsborough County Bar Association. William is passionate about environmental law and has volunteered with the Florida State University Environmental Law Society. He is currently working on a project to promote sustainable practices in the local community.

We need your support for student scholarships!

Dear FSU Law students and alumni,

We are reaching out to our FSU Law family to request your support for our scholarship fund. As a student at FSU Law, I have experienced the value of receiving financial assistance. Many of my classmates have also benefited from scholarships, and I know how important they are to our academic success.

Your generosity will help support the education of future generations of FSU Law students. Whether you can give a small or large donation, every contribution is appreciated and will make a significant impact.

Please consider making a donation to the FSU Law Scholarship Fund today. Your support is vital to ensuring that FSU Law students have the opportunity to pursue their legal education.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Director of Development
FSU College of Law