"I am beyond grateful for the opportunities I have had throughout connecting with Roman Caban or hiring her after graduation, the upper-level writing course Human Trafficking Law. She also had the H. Stafford American Inn of Court. Roman Caban earned the Book Award for Symposium, where she served as secretary during her 2L year. She was an Florida Association for Women Lawyers and the FSU Women’s Law employment, privacy and civil litigation. where she drafted memos and conducted legal research in the areas of participated in community outreach events. Additionally, during the second half interviews, drafted a variety of humanitarian immigration petitions and individuals and families in immigration proceedings as well as any Interest Law Center’s Immigration and Farmworker Project. She represented citations on all briefs. During the summer following her 1L year and during the applicable law. During the summer after her 1L year and throughout her 2L teaching assistant for the FSU Law Juris Master Workplace and Cybersecurity memos on issues regarding local governments and constitutional officers, Caban clerks for Young Qualls, P.A., where she conducts research and drafts from FSU Law in May 2021. Currently, Roman Originally from Moca, Puerto Rico, Stephanie expertise in local government law Field of Law Sought Expected Graduation Orlando the courthouse—teamwork among the busier during this ‘courthouse closure’ period than I am sitting in which we will be conducting business in the courthouse—fewer people allowing for hearings to be conducted virtually, without the necessity of ‘waiting’ long gone; the clerk’s office and the judiciary have worked together to docket which all begin at the same time in the morning or the afternoon are deliberation ‘areas’ (instead of rooms). The day and age of setting large jurors summoned to anticipate higher non-attendance rates, redesigning the resume in late October/early November,” Ward continued. “We have had to “Jury trials have been suspended statewide and are beginning to be planned to they resolve their case by pleading in a Zoom setting, obviating the need to enabling them to have private, confidential communications with their attorneys which allows inmates to participate in evidentiary and other hearings, while still procedures to take pleas for incarcerated defendants via audio-visual of our society,” said Judge Ward. “Through partnerships and many, many Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center. “While we miss seeing all of the students and faculty in Research Center.