For the International Law Students Association, Collett served in various capacities, including secretary for the Indiana State Senate and as an admissions counselor at Anderson College to ensure there's a smooth transition to post-secondary education. During the summer (May-June) of 2020, Collett worked as an employer in the Department of Financial Services. She earned a master's degree in forensic accounting and earned a bachelor's degree in political science from the University.

Collett has a demonstrated ability to articulate complex legal issues to non-legal audiences, which is highly valued by Mound Cotton Wollan & Greengrass LLP. She possesses excellent analytical skills and is known for her ability to understand and interpret legal documents. Collett has a strong commitment to hard work, accountability, and a desire to succeed in her career at Mound Cotton Wollan & Greengrass LLP.

SALDF assisted Pets Ad Litem Tallahassee with research and writing projects, providing practical training in animal law litigation, legislation, and policy. In addition, the course, created a skills-training-based schedule for real-world experience. In spring 2021 semester. Chapter officers secured an expert adjunct professor for an advanced animal law course available to students for the first time during the same year. SALDF was selected for the honor following a year of many achievements, including organizing community events and engaging in animal advocacy initiatives. The alliance was founded to bridge the gap between animal law and the community, providing a platform for students to learn about animal law and the impact it has on society. The group works to promote the well-being of animals through education, awareness, and advocacy. The SALDF team is committed to making a positive impact in the animal law community and creating a more compassionate world for animals.

I'm so glad I chose FSU Law. The support of the FSU Law faculty and student body is second to none, and I feel more than prepared to step into the legal realm. I believe my previous experiences with the Florida State Bar and the soft skills acquired while working in university admissions will serve me well as I embark on my legal career.
