Jean Patrice Mustian (FG)

At FSU Law, Mustian is the president of the Tax Law Society and a staff editor for the Journal of Taxation. In addition to her leadership roles, Mustian serves as a member of the Board of Directors for the American Bar Association’s Taxation Section and as a cabinet member of the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee during the 2020-2021 academic year. In her second year, she interned in the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Southern District of Florida’s Crime Victims’ Rights Division. Mustian was a student nominee member of the American Inn of Court and the Appellate Inn of Court. Mustian has held various leadership positions at the University of Florida’s Warrington College of Business Administration, including as a business law clerk with Clark Partington in Tallahassee, where she worked in the enforcement division. This summer, Mustian worked as a summer associate with Lewis, Brisbois, Bisgaard & Smith in Savannah, Georgia. There, she conducted legal research for securities litigation. She has also assisted in conducting legal research for insurance defense topics ranging from medical malpractice to trucking and premises liability, and she also participated in various stages of litigation, including depositions, mediations, drafting motions, and trial. Mustian worked as a law clerk at the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation during the 2020 legislative session, working as a business law clerk with Clark Partington in Tallahassee, where she focused on labor and employment law, business counseling, and stepdaughters (but still missing my Florida friends and winters!), I jumped at the opportunity to become an out-of-state representative for the FSU. My work to help ensure the regime accountability and moral character was critically needed. “I have thoroughly enjoyed the dynamic curriculum that FSU Law has offered me, particularly in regard to its diverse practical law classes. Being chosen to serve on the Planning and the Student parliament and participation in extracurricular activities is a career in itself that allows me to develop the social, professional, and intellectual skills that will be necessary in my future career.”

Dorsey Odum (FG)

During her second and third years of law school in Tallahassee, Dorsey served as the YLD Health and Wellness Committee. She also helped start the Chicago chapter of the Florida-based Innovative Community Engagement Foundation (ICE Foundation), a nonprofit that provides mentorship, service, and resources to help FLA in its mission to offer support to Florida's lawyers, judges, law students, and paralegals with mental health and substance abuse concerns. Dorsey, who resides in the Chicago area, is a member of the Chicago Alumni Council of The Florida Bar’s Out-of-State Division. She has been extremely engaged in raising the Bar Professionalism+ Program. In addition, many student organizations, such as the Florida State University’s Student Bar Association, have hosted a variety of wellness events outside of the Wellness Wednesday series, including popular sessions on Personal Resilience & Productivity through the Widener Wellness Initiative. In addition, the Office of Student Advancement has hosted for students this year a journaling picnic on the Green, a variety of sessions on Personal Resilience & Productivity through the Widener Wellness Initiative, and other events that have focused on stress management and wellness habits that will help students during the day and beyond.
